I have a table (it's called params) with columns id (integer) and param (text). I have an array of keys : ["foo", "bar"] Now I need to do a query for each key in the array. I use this query: declare c limit 1; for i in (select * from params) do select i.param from params, parameters where parameters.id = i.id order by i.id; end; But it's always returning all keys. How should I change the query? A: You can use it in a join query. Example. select params.* from params left join parameters on params.id = parameters.id where parameters.id in (select params.id from params) order by params.id John de Mowbray, 3rd Baron Mowbray
